

Baili B. Rhodes is a partner at West, Webb, Allbritton & Gentry, PC, in College Station where she practices civil litigation, and primarily family and employment law.

Baili is the current President of Texas Young Lawyers Association. She has been a member of the Texas Young Lawyers Association Board of Directors since 2012, and a member of the executive committee since 2014.

In her role on the TYLA Board, Baili has worked on a number of projects, including BSAFE, Breathe Free, The Texas Attorney General, Ten Minute Mentor, Educating Educators, If I Knew Then, Hiring an Employee with a Record, editor for the Lawyers who Lunch, Pregnancy in the Workplace, and I Was the First. You Can be a Lawyer Too! She is a member of the Texas Bar Foundation, Texas Bar College, Brazos County Bar Association, and Brazos Valley Young Lawyers Association. Baili is also a member of the Junior League of Bryan-College Station, and serves on the Board of Directors. She earned her B.A. from Texas A&M University in 2005 and her J.D. from Baylor University School of Law in 2008. Baili is married to Casey Rhodes, they have two children, and two dogs.