About

Jocelyn LaBove is an experienced aviation executive, arbitrator, mediator, and attorney whose career includes Board Certification in Aviation and Labor and Employment Law. She has served in the public and private sector as an attorney and airline labor lawyer. Jocelyn worked for the Houston Airport System as its Risk and Regulatory Compliance Officer before returning to private practice.

Prior to this service she was the Director of Labor Relations for United and Continental Airlines, which followed her varied career in the public sector as a litigator and advocate - representing the entity/employer as well as the employees in numerous actions including civil rights, labor, negotiations, transactional and regulatory matters, meditations and arbitrations.

As managing partner of Labove Law, PLLC, Jocelyn now serves primarily as an arbitrator and mediator. Her practice as a neutral arbitrator/mediator draws from her comprehensive professional experience to achieve an engaged, thoughtful, safe, civil and collegiate environment for dispute resolution.

Jocelyn's practice as an attorney and consultant derives from her 20 years of combined service in aviation as a legacy airline labor counsel and a risk and regulatory officer at a major airport. The practice also benefits from her public service as a general litigator and labor and employment counsel covering a broad range of matters inclusive of policy and training development, compliance, and torts, civil rights, and transactions at litigation, mediation and negotiation.

Jocelyn serves on the Aviation Law Exam Commission and holds an International Aviation Professional designation from the Airport Management Professional Accreditation Program and continues to support the Airport Council International - North America's Risk Management Committee (ACI). She is nationally recognized for her contribution to risk management and regulatory compliance having received ACI's 2022 Risk Manager of the Year.
