

Meagan Hassan served on the Fourteenth Court of Appeals of Texas until from January 2019 until December 2024, where she wrote over 300 majority opinions, 20 concurrences, and 35 dissents. Prior to her service on the court, she was a partner at a small constitutional rights firm where she secured two clearly established rights at the Fifth Circuit (to film police officers and for pre-compliance review of Texas Medical Board subpoenas). She now serves as Of Counsel to Sico Hoelscher Harris LLP where she handles a nationwide federal civil litigation docket representing the victims of human trafficking. She also a mediator and wedding officiant in her voluminous spare time.