Cessation of Practice Myths

If something happens to me, the State Bar will take over my practice.

✗ False. The State Bar does not take over client files or assign new counsel. Instead, a court might assume jurisdiction over a lawyer's practice and appoint custodian attorneys to close the practice.

I don't need to think about succession planning until I'm getting ready to retire.

✗ False. Cessation of Practice is regulated by the Texas Rules of Disciplinary Procedure. Don't wait for a crisis to strike.

Sudden Cessations of Practice

- Court ordered well-check on absent lawyer; the lawyer died at age 49 after a drug overdose; the practice left active matters pending across multiple counties
- Lawyer reported his father (also a lawyer) suffered from dementia; soon afterword, the son died unexpectedly, leaving decades of files for both practices
- Many young lawyers and senior attorneys became debilitated or died during the Covid pandemic. Lawyers are not immune to crisis.

Cessation of Practice Is Regulated

TEXAS RULES OF DISCIPLINARY PROCEDURE

PART XIII. CESSATION OF PRACTICE

13.02. Assumption of Jurisdiction: A client of the attorney, Chief Disciplinary Counsel, or any other interested person may petition ...

A. That an attorney ... has died, disappeared, resigned, become inactive, been disbarred or suspended, or become physically, mentally or emotionally disabled and cannot provide legal services necessary to protect the interests of clients.

B. That cause exists to believe that ... no other attorney licensed to practice law in Texas has, with the consent of the client, agreed to assume responsibility.

C. That there is cause to believe that ... interested persons or entities will be prejudiced

13.03. Hearing and Order on Application to Assume Jurisdiction: The court ... may issue an order to show cause ... why the court should not assume jurisdiction of the attorney's law practice. If the court finds that one or more of the events stated in Rule 13.02 has occurred and that the supervision of the court is required, the court shall assume jurisdiction and appoint one or more attorneys licensed to practice law in Texas to take such action as set out in the written order of the court ...

The custodian shall observe the attorney-client relationship and privilege as if the custodians were the attorney of the client and may make only such disclosures as are necessary to carry out the purposes of this part. Except for intentional misconduct or gross negligence, no person acting under this part may incur any liability by reason of the institution or maintenance of a proceeding under this Part XIII. No bond or other security is required.

Practical Objectives Upon Cessation

1. Access to client files
2. Notice to clients and others
3. Client direction on where client wants the file to go
4. Return of client property
 - a. The Client File
 - b. Final reconciliation of the IOLTA
 - c. Property held in trust or escrow

To Custodian Attorneys:

1. Custodian attorneys wind down the practice
2. Custodians do not become the new lawyers
3. Custodian liability protection written into the rules
4. Best handled at the local level
5. Recruit a team

To Courts and Counsel of Record:

Courts and Court Staff:

On proof of cessation, prepare case lists and reassign court appointments

Opposing Counsel:

Observe ethics rules on communications; alert the court and request status conference

To Clients:

1. Secure new counsel
2. Lawyer referral services
3. Legal service programs
4. Self-help resources (texaslawhelp.org)
5. Client Security Fund

To Family and Staff:

1. Empathy first, feel the loss
2. Explain cessation of practice is regulated
3. Find persons with most knowledge of the practice
4. Membership needs obituary or death certificate
5. Texas Bar Journal service to publish a memorial

Temporary Cessations

- Lawyer suffered a stroke during trial. There was a sudden cessation, but the lawyer recovered and returned to practice.
- During the pandemic, many lawyers contracted Covid 19. One lawyer fell into a coma, survived the illness, and came back.
- Lawyers are sometimes needed by loved ones as care providers. Practice can be interrupted when a family member is seriously injured, in cognitive decline, or suffering from life threatening or terminal illness.

Unplanned cessations are a concern for the discipline of law practice. The scope of the problem is national.

Law practice as a discipline is changing.

We may one day join the jurisdictions that require mandatory succession plans.

How to Get Started

The first step is to designate your custodian attorney.

Talk to a colleague you know and trust. Ask if the lawyer is willing to close your practice, if needed.

The designation can be mutual.

Advance Designation of Custodian Attorney

STATE BAR of TEXAS

Designation of Custodian Attorney

The arc of a lawyer's law practice eventually comes to an end. Ideally, the lawyer is ready, and transition from practice goes according to plan. However, in some events, cessation of practice is sudden and unexpected.

Succession planning fosters order and emergency preparedness. The Texas Supreme Court regulates cessation of practice consistent with these principles. Texas Rules of Disciplinary Procedure

For emergency management and client protection, the State Bar of Texas urges all lawyers to designate in advance one or more custodian attorneys. The role of the custodian attorney is to assist in winding down the lawyer's law practice. Practical objectives of custodianship include:

New Rules Added by Referendum Elections

- TRDP 13.04: Voluntary Appointment of Custodian Attorney for Cessation of Practice
 - Effective July 1, 2021
 - Enables lawyers to name their own custodian
 - Provides custodian attorney with same liability protection as court-appointed custodian

Texas Supreme Court's Comment to TRDP 13.04

Comment:

Performing the duties of a custodian under this Rule does not create a client-lawyer relationship. If a lawyer serving as custodian assumes representation of a client, the lawyer's role as custodian terminates, and the lawyer's actions are subject to the Texas Disciplinary Rules of Professional Conduct regarding the client-lawyer relationship.

New Rules Added by Referendum Elections

- TRDP 13.05: Termination of Custodianship
 - Effective October 1, 2024
 - Governs when and how to terminate a custodianship
 - Enables the appointing attorney to return to practice when competent and qualified.

Mechanics of TRDP Part 13

13.01 – Ordinary Cessations

13.02 – Extraordinary Cessations

13.03 – Court-Appointed Custodianship

13.04 – Voluntary Appointment of Custodian

13.05 – Termination of Custodianship

Traditional Methods of Transferring Client Matters to Successor Lawyers

Hire

Hire a younger lawyer into the firm and transfer client matters over time with client consent, then arrange departure compensation for the senior lawyer at the proper time.

Join or merge

Join or merge with another firm and introduce clients to the new firm's lawyers and arrange for permissible compensation and client consent to transfer files.

Co-Counsel

Engage outside co-counsel with client consent and enter a permissible fee sharing arrangement based on work performed or shared.

Can I Sell My Practice?

Opinion 266

Concluded that sale of practice in 1963 would violate Canons that prohibited attorney solicitation and protected confidentiality.

“Clients are not merchandise. Lawyers are not Tradesmen.”

Note

The opinion predates our Texas Disciplinary Rules of Professional Conduct. Advertisement of the sale inferred it was a sale of “clientele.”

Lawyers don’t sell clients or client files. Find value in the tangible and intangible property of the practice.

No Texas
disciplinary rule

How Your Bar Community Can Help

Emergency cessations are best handled at the local level. Recruit members and organize teams.

For emergency preparedness, custodian attorneys can be trained and available when needed for appointment by local courts.

Implement a crisis assistance program. It's good for lawyers, clients, courts, and lawyers' families.

Sometimes, you don't see it coming.

An interruption or cessation of your practice can be sudden and unexpected. Visit the Bar's Succession Planning Portal and designate a colleague to act as a custodian attorney if the need arises.
